Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn. — "Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I was bed-ridden, and my husband, being a well man, was a great help to me. I took Lydia Pinkham's Compound and used Lydia Pinkham's San Wash. I am a woman now and can work as well as any one who is younger and as I have plenty to do in my garden, raise chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as you wish. I have been so well and since my troubles are past." — Mrs. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. They are upset with some domestic trouble and out of sorts generally. Give Vegetable Compound a fair trial. You will believe it will help you greatly, if you are nervous and irritable, without a doctor's help.

After the wedding. Jones — What did you do with old typewriter of yours? Brown — Oh, I married her.

A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburntown, Tenn. 6-22-23. Dear Sir: Mr. Robert T. Donnell the other day and wanted something to eat. He found a box of six little white rats and the next morning he put out four more. And he found a total of seventy-one rats. He did not find them. This is a big rat tale, but new rats. It is so. Just thought I would let you know that your rat was good. Respectfully, KENNEDY BROTHERS

THREE CARS ARE DERAILED BY DEER

Breaking the halter that was to hold it until the arrival of two mighty deer hunters from Waukegan, a big buck made a desperate dash for liberty when it became frightened at the singing of bullets from the guns of Charles E. Bairstow and Frank Miller, and crashed into a freight train, derailing two cars and a caboose, near Flambeau Lodge, Powell, Wis. It was learned when the triumphant nimrods returned with their prey.

The deer, weighing 325 pounds, was so badly crippled the hunters had to shoot it. Bairstow, a building material dealer, and Miller, a building contractor, have taken up the matter with the railroad company and are threatening to sue for obstructing the view of the hunters. But the members of the train crew have another grievance. A stray bullet deprived the conductor of a 15 cent cigar he had just lighted as the train puffed out of Powell. A counter suit may be started by the railroad company charging the hunters with damaging a "headlight".

Miller also got a deer, weighing 275 pounds, which was nicely halter broke.

"STUB" GOODMAN IN ACCIDENT

A truck driven by S. H. (Stub) Goodman, graduate auctioneer, at Antioch, collided with a Ford car driven by R. J. Matabe, 712 Porter street, last Thursday, on the corner of County and Water streets, Waukegan. The accident occurred at 10 a. m. Both cars were damaged. The police were called but no arrests were made, as a settlement agreeable to both parties was made.

SALEM MAN DIED MONDAY

Death ended a long illness on Monday afternoon when Marvin W. Acker, aged 73 years, for many years the owner of a meat market in the village of Salem, died at his home there. He had been ill for a number of years and had been in a critical condition for several days.

The funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock today at the home in Salem with interment following in the family plot in the Genoa Junction cemetery.

H. J. Barber has rented his farm to his son Chauncey and will move to Antioch and will occupy the Effinger house on Lake street.

Walter Chinn and lady friends of Kenosha returned to that city Sunday after spending Thanksgiving and a few days at the home of Mrs. Chinn.

On Monday, Dec. 1, we received a bouquet consisting of dandelions, marigolds and sweet peas, all in flower, which was picked from the yard of Mr. C. B. Harrison. This is something quite unusual for this time of the year and is certainly quite springlike.

Miss Laura Williams of Chicago spent Thanksgiving with her parents here.

L. B. Grice and wife went to Chicago Monday where he has purchased a new stock of furniture and will open for business in the R. D. Emmons building on Main street, with a full stock for the holiday trade.

At the Woman's Club

Because of the multiplied activities of the past week, the notice of the Woman's Club meeting was side-tracked. However, the club is still on the map and is true to the purpose of its organization—self development and civic improvement.

At its last regular meeting, Nov. 20, a short business session was held before the time of the opening of the program. Copies of the proposed new constitution were placed in the hands of every club woman, thus insuring her opportunity for intelligent action at the polls Dec. 12.

A motion was made that the Woman's Club aid the firemen by taking charge of the supper to be given at the firemen's benefit dance Road Opening day. The motion was unanimously carried and a committee appointed for that purpose.

A Community Christmas tree, to be placed in a convenient location somewhere in the downtown "loop district" was the next subject under discussion.

A motion that the Woman's Club be responsible for such a movement was carried by a unanimous vote and a large volunteer committee quickly secured for the purpose of setting the tree.

This committee will go into action immediately after Thanksgiving and hopes to have the hearty support and cooperation of the entire community irrespective of race, creed, color, age or size.

Further details will be given next week, but get ready to boost all along the line. Antioch's Community Christmas tree will express to all the message of the season. "Peace on earth, good will to all men."

The literary program under the auspices of the music department of the Woman's Club was in charge of Mrs. William Ziegler, ably assisted by Miss Carrie Chard of Libertyville, and several fine little pianists who are growing up in our own homes, the Misses Mabel Van Dusen, Dorothy Brogan and Roberta Lewis.

The program was a study and interpretative rendering of Indian music. Mrs. Ziegler, in a well prepared paper, gave an outline of Indian interpretation of the great forces of nature about him as expressed in the music and chants of the different tribes.

Miss Chard is no stranger in Antioch. Indeed she seems like "one of our folks" and we hope to have her with us again before the close of the club year.

Her rendition of the Indian songs was greatly enjoyed. Especially fine was "The Pale Blue Moon."

Several Indian chiefs from the "Third Grade reservation," blanketed and feathered, filed solemnly into the room, and squatted Indian fashion upon the floor in front of the tepee.

At a signal from the great chief, these young Indian braves illustrated as well as their cramped quarters would permit an Indian ceremonial dance.

Present train schedules render it impossible to depend upon outside speakers for the club programs, but the value and interest of these programs seem in no way affected. The club is developing its own resources and finding it worth-while. "Let George do it" is not the slogan of the Woman's Club.

"What's the matter with the Woman's Club? It's all right!"

Aviator Injured at Grass Lake Has Recovered

Richard Swain, of Chicago, who narrowly escaped being cut to death by the blades of a propeller on his airplane at the Bert Bown farm on Fox Lake road three months ago, was dismissed last Friday from the Victory Memorial hospital where he was taken after the accident. He is to go with his brother to Davenport, Ia., until he is entirely recovered.

Swain received a fracture of the left leg and cuts about the body in the mishap. He was carrying passengers through the air as a money-making enterprise previous to the accident. Before making one of his trips he was making a test of the machine when the propeller sucked him into it and struck him to the ground.

An ambulance was called from Waukegan and he was immediately removed to the hospital. He is an ex-service man, being in the aviation during the war.

CHARGED WITH BREAKING OF TOMBSTONES

Charles Thomsen Declares Confession Is Due to Mistreatment

IS UNDER $1,000 BONDS

Charged with the breaking and overturning of practically all the tombstones in Mill Creek cemetery, near Wadsworth, Charles Thomsen, who resides adjacent to the cemetery, was placed under arrest the latter part of last week and held under bonds of $1,000.

It is charged that Thomsen, with the help of two foreigners, whose names were not made public, used ropes to overturn the heavy stones.

Declaring that he was mistreated and not given enough to eat while in the Waukegan jail and that the police officials refused to notify his family of his whereabouts for two days were the reasons for his confessing the act charged against him, so he could be released upon bonds, said Thomsen.

While Thomsen does not deny making the confession, nevertheless he says he is not guilty and that he made the confession only after he had been told that "it would be the only way by which he would be released from jail," that "he would be held there a month or more until the admission of guilt came."

Thomsen went on further to explain following his release on bonds that he never tipped over any tombstones, that on the night in question he was too drunk to have done so had he had the desire. He admits that he had been out to a neighbor's and upon returning home was so drunk that when he reached his place his hired man had to carry him into the house and lay him on a couch. He insists that he was in no condition to tip over tombstones or anything else.

With reference to his incarceration in the Lake county jail he says that he repeatedly asked that the authorities there notify his wife where he was but they would not do so.

He said that Detective McWeeny told him that "the only way he could get out of jail was to admit his guilt in connection with the tombstone affair."

Thomsen also says that McWeeny charged him with having been the one who some years ago burned down the church at Wadsworth. Thomsen absolutely denied any connection with that affair. He insists that he had never been connected up with the burning of the church at all until the present time that the local detective made the assertion.

He says that he will fight this case to the limit and that when he gets in circuit court the whole situation will assume a different attitude than it has now while he has been held in the county jail. He not only will deny that he had any part of the affair but will endeavor to prove that the local authorities, by keeping him in jail, not only prevented him from getting in touch with his family but that he was intimidated into making the confession of guilt and will prove that it was made only as a means of getting his freedom.

(Third Sunday of Month)

Last Sunday was the Sunday next before Advent, or the 24th Sunday after Trinity. There was a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8:00 in the morning by the Rev. F. H. Burrell, formerly of Clinton, Iowa. This is the first Eucharist we have had for six weeks and it was much appreciated. There was a good attendance at it. Church School was held at the regular time, and there was also a good attendance at it. During the session the regular lesson was taught, and in addition prayers were offered for the recovery of Catherine Hay, and for the repose of the soul of Harold Roeschlein, both of them former scholars in the Church School.

At the service of Morning Prayer, Mr. Brock explained the Book entitled, "The Program Presented: what shall we do with it?" This little book tells all about the work of the Church in the past three years, and gives the plans for the future. It has some most interesting reading about the missions of the Church, domestic and foreign. Those who received them will find much of interest in reading them. The purpose of the book is to place before the Church people the work of the Church in all its detail. A special speaker for the National Church Program was scheduled to explain in more detail the work of the Church's Missions, but did not arrive.

In place of a sermon, Mr. Brock gave a short commentary on the Gospel for the Day. This portion of scripture contained the story of the feeding of the five thousand. This story has always been associated in some way with the Eucharist, which is another form of the Breaking of Bread. The story of the feeding of the five thousand appears in different forms in the different parts of the New Testament. The different Evangelists present it in different ways, with slightly different figures. St. Matthew was always interested in the fulfillment of Old Testament prophecies, and hence we so often have the phrase, "that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, etc." He was interested in presenting Christianity to the Jews. St. Mark was most interested in the narration of events, and so he has almost continuous narrative. St. Mark's Gospel is the earliest that was written. St. Luke, the beloved physician, was interested in presenting the Gospel to the Gentiles. He was also concerned with the medical terms that were needed in describing the sicknesses that Our Lord cured. We find that he always uses exact medical terminology, whereas the others are often vague. The different points of view of these Evangelists explain the different versions of the same story, that we often find in the New Testament.

SUNDAY SERVICES:
Sunday School. 9:45
Morning Service. 11:00
Epworth League. 7:00
Evening Service. 7:45

"I wish everybody in town could have been in the service this morning" was the way one enthusiastic attendant spoke of the Sunday morning service. It was shown that it is impossible for anyone to keep saved unless he is always at work trying to save others.

The evening services were pronounced one of the finest held in Antioch in a long time. The solo by Clarence Shults was a treat, the duet by Mrs. Ferris and Mr. Christian impressively carried its message to all hearts and the story of "The House That Stood the Storm" with the solo of the same title, sung by the pastor, brought home very forcibly that no life foundation is possible but on the basis of obedience to Jesus Christ.

The service next Sunday evening also will be one of special interest. It is highly encouraging to not the fine appreciation of the improved type of Sunday evening service, manifested in largely increased attendance. Let everybody be getting ready for the big revival meeting, to begin Dec. 31. Our Evangelist, Dr. Ludgate, directs that each Christian make up a prayer-list of unsaved persons immediately and be working with and praying for each one on the list. He wants a copy of each list. There will be a general meeting of all the members of the church and all others desiring to see the revival succeed at 3:00 p. m. Sunday to organize and raise committees.

The subject next Sunday will be, "Giving All for Souls."

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn. — "Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger, and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help other women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past. — Mrs. E. T. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain.

If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. We believe it will help you greatly, for it has helped others.

After the wedding. Jones—What did you do with that old typewriter of yours? Brown—Oh, I married her.

RUSS AND TURKS BACK U. S. AIMS

American Open Door Policy May Be Extended to the Near East.

APPLIED TO CHINA ONLY NOW

Allies Expected to Refuse Demand Unless United States Supplies Troops, as Great Britain and France Now Doing.

Lausanne, Nov. 27.—Both the Russians and the Turks seem about to espouse openly the American open door policy enunciated by the American observers here and to stand for it against the Allies. Russia is negotiating with the Turks on this basis. Delegates comment that the American statement seems to mark an attempt by the United States to give the open door policy world-wide application, as shown particularly in the last paragraph of Ambassador Child's statement wherein, until now the original John Hay doctrine was only applied to China.

The Allies will answer that while the principle seems sound, it will be hard to grant unless America will accept the responsibilities such as the British insist they accept by the presence of their troops in areas like Turkey.

The Lausanne conference is fast becoming a British-Turkish affair, with the French a diminishing factor since their agreement to support the Curzon memorandum. Therefore it is for the British to decide whether the conference is to accept the American proposition. Every specific question like Thrace and the Maritza forts is being tied up by British for the purpose of bargaining on economic privileges, like the Mosul oil right.

REDS ROIL COMMONS

Labor Party Opposition Takes a Leading Part.

Leader Interrupted by Ministerial Members Says He Is Used to Rowdy Houses.

London, Nov. 24.—Labor, the new party of opposition in the British commons, took the floor in earnest in a commons debate, indicating that the Labor members intend in the future to take a dominating part in discussions and decisions. Besides Mr. Newbold, Scottish communist member, hoisted the red flag in a long speech reminiscent of Moscow oratory.

"I am proud to think I belong to the same movement and under the same flag as Nicol Lenin," he said. This drew the retort: "Why don't you go to Russia?"

Whereupon the member from Lansbury snapped: "Why should he? Why don't you go?" to the interrupter.

Mr. Newbold said the interruption did not affect him, as he had been in rowdy houses before. "If the working men do not get satisfaction we will have to deal with you as Cromwell dealt with your predecessors."

To the ministerial laughter which greeted this, Mr. Newbold taunted: "You wish tranquillity. Yes, because your master's voice in Wall street says tranquillity. You are not going to get it."

BREAKDOWN OF DRY LAW SEEN

President and Cabinet Talk of Prohibition Enforcement Failure.

REMEDIES ARE DISCUSSED

Harding Sees Peril in Violations of the Volstead Act—Public May Be Appealed to for Support of Law.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Complete breakdown in liquor law enforcement, bringing with it a contempt for all law and, graver still, a lack of full-measured respect for American institutions, is giving President Harding and other administration leaders grave concern. The entire time of the cabinet session Friday was given to consideration of the failure to make the country measurably dry.

The cabinet concluded that the people were to be held accountable for the failure rather than the law. An official statement made after the cabinet meeting as to the situation throughout the country as far as prohibition is concerned created a mild sensation in Washington because it was so in contrast with official announcements made over a long period of months by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, which in every instance proclaimed a growing respect for the law and an increase in sentiment for law enforcement.

The concern of the President and his advisers is primarily with the menace to the country seen in the disregard for the prohibition law by otherwise law-abiding citizens.

The cabinet discussed ways and means of strengthening law enforcement and regard for the prohibition laws and the eighteenth amendment. The conclusion was that some form of appeal to the people was necessary. A means is being sought to get the support and help of the conscience-driven, government-loving members of the community that they will not permit or countenance violations of the liquor laws any more than other laws.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Investigation of the complete breakdown in the enforcement of prohibition in Philadelphia on last Saturday, where 50,000 people assembled at the annual Army and Navy game, may be ordered by President Harding.

The violation of the law was too flagrant as to be apparent to the most casual observer. It existed at the game itself. Men and women drank underneath the stadium between the halves and at night some of the larger hotels were filled with drunks.

"And now, children," said she, in her turn, "you must run and tell your mamma!"

"SHOULD A WOMAN TELL" AT CRYSTAL NEXT WEDNESDAY

Producers of "Life's Greatest Question," which is to be the film feature at the Crystal Wednesday, Dec. 6, have undertaken to present on the screen a thrilling exposition of the age-old question: Should a woman tell her husband of her past life?

However, it would appear that those responsible for this particular production had given up hope of ever finding a suitable solution to this problem in the center of civilization, since they have chosen to make the locale of their story an outpost village in the Far North. This original touch brings to the screen one of the most compelling stories of adventure and thrill ever screened in the Northland.

Character in the story are played by Roy Stewart and Louise Lovely, who are co-starred. The latter plays the newly acquired wife of the village's most prominent citizen, while the former is a courageous member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in love with the bride's stepdaughter.

Superb backgrounds make this production, scenically, one of the outstanding pictures of the year. It was directed by Harry Revier, and was photographed in the country in which it is supposed to occur.

MANY COUNTIES ERADICATE TUBERCULOSIS IN CATTLE

The most important feature of the tuberculosis-eradication movements continues to be the cleaning up of definite areas, principally counties, according to the United States department of agriculture. Reports for June, July and August show that 31 additional counties in 10 states have officially adopted the area plan. This brings the total of counties now doing intensive work up to 144. Thirty-nine counties have completed one or more tests.

Of the 31 counties that began area work this summer, California, Indiana, Virginia, Tennessee, and Maine have 1 each, Wisconsin 5 and Wyoming 12.

To date the best example of a successful country-wide drive is the one carried on in Steuben county, N. Y. During a period of 19 days there were tested, by veterinarians, 4,615 lots containing more than 45,000 head of cattle.

The disease was found on 466 farms, and 1,574 reactors were removed. The total cost of the campaign in the county was $10,800—about 23.5 cents a head for all animals tested. Ninety-eight per cent of the herds were tested in the drive and the few "conscientious objectors" remaining have decided to have their cattle tested. The great success of the work in this county was due in large measure to the whole-hearted cooperation given by the livestock owners, the Farm Bureau, railroad livestock agents, women's clubs, Dairymen's League, breeders' organizations, county commissioners, chamber of commerce, and other organizations.

WILLIAM CREMIN

William Cornelius Cremin was born in Rutland, Vermont, on October 6, 1862. He came to Illinois with his mother and sister when he was three years old, living in Lake county the remainder of his life, except two years which he spent in Ida Grove, Ia.

On March 7, 1878, he was united in marriage to Bertha Evelyn Edwards. To this union three children were born, Lora E. Hartray, Doris M. and Frank W. Cremin. In 1897 his wife died and in 1902 his eldest son, Doris M., passed away.

In 1903 he was united in marriage to Mary E. Bain, who, with his daughter and son, Frank, two half sisters, Mrs. W. J. Van Duzer of Antioch, and Mrs. A. Cunningham of Glen Ellyn, Calif., and six grandchildren, survive him and mourn his loss.

After a short but serious illness, Mr. Cremin was called home from the McAllister hospital, Waukegan, on Nov. 7, 1922. He lived the allotted time of 70 years, 1 month and 1 day, a life of usefulness, kindness and Christian devotion to his family, to his neighbors and to his God.

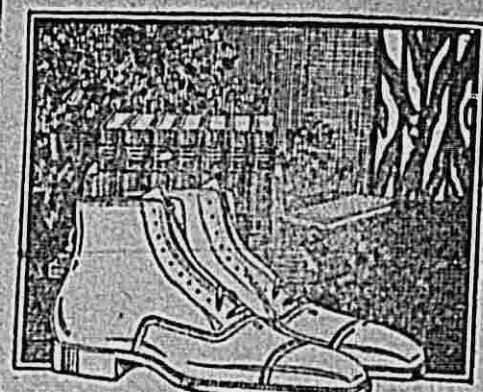

He belonged to the Centennial church, Lake Villa, and also had joined the Modern Woodmen of Lake Villa.

Servant of God, well done! Thy glorious warfare's past, The battle's fought, the race is won, And thou art crowned at last. Amen.

Doris Keane at the Majestic on Saturday Night

One of the most striking personalities on stage and screen is Miss Doris Keane, who is to be seen at the Majestic Theater in the wonderful drama, "Romance," Saturday night, written by Edward Sheldon, author of "The Boys," "Salvation Nell" and a host of other successes.

It was some four years ago that this striking personality came to the ardent attention of dramatic critics, and in short she was climbing rapidly to the top of the ladder until today she is recognized as America's greatest emotional actress. This personality was forcibly given to the lovers of the stage when she portrayed the role of Sonia Kritchneff in "Arsene Lupin," and in that character it was so in evidence that it swayed her audience long before she spoke a single word. This is undoubtedly the greatest natural gift any actress can possess, for it appeals to all audiences and at once arouses that sympathetic bond which places the audience in accord. No matter what sort of a role such a person acts, it universally gains heart sympathy. Miss Keane, equipped as she is with this wonderful unknown quality known as magnetism, has won multitudes of admirers.

Business Woman Feared She Had Heart Trouble

"Since Tanlac has overcome a bad case of indigestion and nervousness of three or four years' standing for me, my work here in the store is a pleasure, and I am certainly grateful for the good health it has given me," said Mrs. J. W. Pickins, of 510 E. 15th St., Los Angeles, who owns and operates the book store at 210 Mercantile Place.

"I was so run down that I felt miserable all the time. My sleep was broken and restless. I had no appetite, and the gas from undigested food caused my heart to palpitate so I thought I had heart trouble. For a time I had a swelling in my legs, too, and it was an effort for me to get about."

"It is wonderful how Tanlac has given me such perfect relief from these troubles. I eat heartily now, sleep like a child at night, and just feel fine all the time."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Wise Is Youth.

A few evenings ago, a little girl, three years old, was enjoying some Mother Goose jingles on her father's knee. Little Bo Peep was being rehearsed and when the place was reached where, in the rhyme, it says "bringing their tails behind them," the father purposely changed it to read this way, "noting their tails before them," and noting the surprised look on her face said, "I made a beefstake, didn't I?" She promptly answered, "No, it was a sheepstake."

"Precisely," answered Erskine, "and when?"

"At the first opportunity."

"From this moment I shall be waiting for nothing else."

Barbara, reappearing, heard their last words, and she came forward pale and with piercing eyes:

"Cousin Erskine, I want to apologize to you for my little faith. I hope you will forgive me. Mr. Grey, your horse will be at the door at once. I wish you a safe journey—to your command." Grey bowed and turned—furious.

Erskine was on the porch when Grey came out to mount his horse.

"You will want seconds?" asked Grey.

"They might try to stop us—no!"

Erskine bowed.

"I shall not."

Nor did he. Within half an hour Barbara, passing through the hall, saw that the rapiers were gone from the wall and she stopped, with the colored flag from her face and her hand on her heart. At that moment Ephraim dashed from the kitchen.

"Miss Barbara, somebody's going to get killed. I was vukkin' in de ole field an' Marse Grey rid by cussin' to himself. Jist now Marse Erskine went tearin' by de landin' wid a couple o' swords under his arm." His eyes went to the wall. "Yes, bless Gawd, dey's gone!" Barbara flew out the door.

In a few moments she had found Harry and Hugh. Even while their horses were being saddled her father rode up.

"It's murder," cried Harry, "and Grey knows it. Erskine knows nothing about a rapier."

Without a word Colonel Dale wheeled his tired horse and soon Harry and Hugh dashed after him. Barbara walked back to the house, wringing her hands, but on the porch she sat quietly in the agony of waiting that was the role of women in those days.

Meanwhile, at a swift gallop Firefly was skimming along the river road. Grey had kept his word and more: he had not only ridden slowly but he had tree that was a cornerstone between two plantations.

"That I may not kill you on your own land," he said.

Erskine started. "The consideration is deeper than you know."

They hitched their horses, and Erskine followed into a pleasant glade—a grassy glade through which murmured a little stream. Erskine dropped the rapiers on the sward.

"Take your choice," he said.

"There is none," said Grey, picking up the one nearer to him. "I know them both." Grey took off his coat while Erskine waited. Grey made the usual moves of courtesy and still Erskine waited, wondering, with the point of the rapier on the ground.

"When you are ready," he said, "will you please let me know?"

"Ready!" answered Grey, and he lunged forward. Erskine merely whipped at his blade so that the clanging of it whined on the air to the breaking-point and sprang backward. He was as quick as an eyelash and lithe as a panther, and yet Grey almost laughed aloud. All Erskine did was to whip the thrusting blade aside and Grey's face flamed and actually turned anxious. Then, as a kindly fate would have it, Erskine's blade caught in Grey's guard by accident, and the powerful wrist behind it sought merely to wrench the weapon loose tore Grey's rapier from his grasp and hurled it ten feet away. There is no greater humiliation for the expert swordsman, and not for nothing had Erskine suffered the shame of that long-ago day when a primitive instinct had led him to thrusting his knife into this same enemy's breast. Now, with his sword's point on the earth, he waited courteously for Grey to recover his weapon.

Again a kindly fate intervened. Even as Grey rushed for his sword, Erskine heard the beat of horses' hoofs. As he snatched it from the ground and turned, with a wicked smile over his grinding teeth, came Harry's shout, and as he rushed for Erskine, Colonel Dale swung from his horse. The sword-blades clashed, Erskine whipping back and forth in a way to make a swordsman groan—and Colonel Dale had Erskine by the wrist and was between them.

"How dare you, sir?" cried Grey hotly.

"Just a moment, young gentleman," said Colonel Dale calmly.

"Let us alone, Uncle Harry—I—"

"Just a moment," repeated the colonel sternly. "Mr. Grey, do you think it quite fair that you with your skill should fight a man who knows nothing about fells?"

"There was no other way," Grey said sullenly.

"And you could not wait, I presume?" Grey did not answer.

"Now, hear what I have to say, and if you both do not agree, the matter will be arranged to your entire satisfaction, Mr. Grey. I have but one question to ask. Your country is at war. She needs every man for her defense. Do you not think your lives belong to your country and that it is selfish and unpatriotic just now to risk them in any other cause?" He waited for his meaning to sink in, and sink it did.

"Colonel Dale, your nephew grossly insulted me, and your daughter showed me the door. I made no defense to him nor to her, but I will to you. I merely repeated what I had been told and I believed it true. Now that I hear it is not true, I agree with you, regrets and apologies."

"That is better," said Colonel Dale heartily, and he turned to Erskine, but Erskine was crying hotly:

"And I express neither."

"Perhaps we may meet when your relatives are not present to protect you."

"Uncle Harry—" Erskine implored, but Grey was turning toward his horse.

"After all, Colonel Dale is right."

"Yes," assented Erskine helplessly, and then—"It is possible that we shall not always be on the same side."

"So I thought," returned Grey with lifted eyebrows. "When I heard what I

"What's the matter, little daughter?"

"I—I don't know."

"I understand. You were quite right to send him away, but you did not want him harmed."

"I—I didn't want anybody harmed."

"I know. It's too true, but none of us seem quite to trust him."

"That's it," she sobbed; "I don't, either, and yet—"

"I know. I know. My little girl must be wise and brave, and maybe it will all pass and she will be glad. But she must be brave. Mother is not well and she must not be made unhappy too. She must not know. Can't my little girl come back to the house now? She must be hostess and this is Erskine's last night. She looked up, brushing away her tears.

"His last night?" Ah, wise old colonel!

"Yes—he goes tomorrow to join Captain Clark at Williamsburg on his foolish campaign in the Northwest. We might never see him again."

"Oh, father!"

"Well, it isn't that bad, but my little girl must be very nice to him. He seems to be very unhappy, too."

Barbara looked thoughtful, but there was no pretense of not understanding.

"I'm sorry," she said. She took her father's arm, and when they reached the steps Erskine saw her smiling. And smiling, almost gay, she was at supper, sitting with exquisite dignity in her mother's place. Of Erskine, who sat at her right, she asked many questions about the coming campaign. Captain Clark had said he would go with a hundred men if he could get no more. The rallying point would be the fort in Kentucky where he had first come back to his own people, and Dave Vandell would be captain of a company. He himself was going as guide, though he hoped to act as soldier as well. Perhaps they might bring back the Half-Buyer, General Hamilton, a prisoner to Williamsburg, and then he would join Harry and Hugh in the militia if the war came south and Virginia were invaded, as some prophesied, by Tarleton's White Rangers, who had been ravaging the Carolinas. After supper the little lady excused herself with a smiling courtesy to go to her mother, and Erskine found himself in the moonlight on the big portico with Colonel Dale alone.

"Erskine," he said, "you make it very difficult for me to keep your secret. Hugh alone seems to suspect—he must have got the idea from Grey, but I have warned him to say nothing. The others seem not to have thought of the matter at all. It was a boyish impulse of generosity which you may regret."

"Never," interrupted the boy. "I have no use—less than ever now."

"Nevertheless," the colonel went on, "I regard myself as merely your steward, and I must tell you one thing, Mr. Jefferson, as you know, is always at open war with people like us. His hand is against coach and four, silver plate, and aristocrat. He is fighting now against the law that gives property to the eldest son, and he will pass the bill. His argument is rather amusing. He says if you will show him that the oldest son eats more, wears more, and does more work than his brothers, he will grant that that son is entitled to more. He wants to blot out all distinctions of class. He can't do that, but he will pass this bill."

"I hope he will," muttered Erskine. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

He—"Haven't I seen you somewhere some time?" She—"Oh, very likely, I was there at the time you mention."

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Also the good-night kiss comes under the head of farewell performances.

She—So you kissed that painted creature? He—Yes, I saluted the colors.

What's all the excitement in the front show? "Someone told Tat-tat-tat Bill he was a marked man."

Country's Heart in Own Community

Merchants of Our Town Aid In Raising Funds to Win World War Quickly

Every community in this country has gone through a new birth as a result of the demands for service, Antioch with the rest. The war was the worker of this modern miracle. Young men responded to the call to cross the seas as fighters, and the young women followed them as aurses; while their elders, on account of their age or on account of obligations of dependence and other causes, remained behind to "keep the home fires burning." Antioch, with the rest of the world, is singing this praise of the former as the heroes who kept the torch of civilization flaming when a barbarian horde threatened to extinguish it; but not much has been said yet for these other heroes and heroines who did so much to sustain the front line of defense by knitting together the people in each community in a closer bond of brotherhood.

It is the latter who are pointing the way for the new awakening in Antioch which is enlisting to effort of our leading business men.

City Is a Melting Pot

Our big cities are the melting pot, and the problem of absorbing into the body politic the foreign elements coming to our shores often brings on throes in our national life that are nothing short of political, economic and industrial indigestion. Frequently there are elements which cannot be absorbed, and then they must be expelled; deportation, such as we have had recently, was the only means of relief.

None of these upheavals finds their way to our smaller towns and cities. Here the development of American ideals and American institutions proceeds along the lines laid down by Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln.

Aided in Raising Funds

If there was danger that we might depart from this path, as a result of the easy prosperity that came to all the nation from the unprecedented development preceding the war, the necessities of war-time cooperation brought us back to it. The individual again became submerged in the community. His selfish demands had to give way before the needs of others. Red Cross funds had to be raised. Liberty Loan quotas met and the best of the federal food administration complied with. Often it was hard for the individual to do what was asked of him, but there was the community's quota to meet—so nothing remained but to combine and bring the community "over the top."

Lack of space forbids going into greater detail, but these brief references will suffice to bring the point home to the readers of this newspaper who are now brushing these lessons aside and patronizing others than home-town business men.

The Antioch merchants have been trained to community leadership. Their money is invested here, and they are vitally interested in the community's present and future. It is their home, consequently they will make every sacrifice for its continued progress.

To stop working for the community now is to let the splendid edifice that has been built up crumble and collapse. It means ignoring the big lesson that has been taught by the war. Spend your money in the community in which you earn it. You help yourself by helping your home town. Buy from your local merchants.

Next week we will talk to you about the actual dollar-and-cents saving that this means for you.

CO-OPERATION!

Cooperation means mutual help. It always results in benefit. It constitutes a power for good. It means profit and accomplishment. The welfare and growth of Antioch depends upon cooperation. The merchants of Antioch have established themselves and invested their money here and constitute a powerful factor for the growth and betterment of the town. But they need your cooperation, expressed in patronage. When you send or spend your money outside of Antioch it cannot be spent by the merchants to help build the community.

Many Lake Villa Entries at Stock Show

Lake Villa will again be represented at the great International Live Stock show, Dec. 2-9, at Chicago. J. K. Derling's Cedar Crest Farms will have their famous string of Hackney ponies there, all of which were bred and raised on the farms from the imported Hackney Stud, Chocolate Soldier, which has headed their herd of ponies for the past four years.

The Cedar Crest ponies were shown at the Kansas City Royal last week and were very successful in winning 15 blues.

O. W. Lehmann's Chesney Farms will also be represented at the International Show with their full stable of harness horses, jumpers and saddle horses. Chesney Farms has been represented at the famous New York National Horse Show and the Kansas City Royal, where they have put Lake Villa to the front once more by taking the lions share of the blue ribbons.

Chesney Farms swine department, which was started two years ago, now numbers 200 head of the new big type Duroc-Jersey hogs, with Sensation Improver, the largest senior yearling boar of the breed as head of this fast growing herd. Sensation Improver will be shown at the International Stock show as the largest senior yearling boar shown this year. He weighed 860 pounds in September, when he won first at the Nebraska State fair.

Merchants Back Town's Welfare

Cooperation of Business Men Contribute to Up-building of Community

The ambition of every merchant in Lake Villa is to make this town the best along the line.

This may be a selfish object on his part, but the fact remains that he can prosper only if all the city thrives, for it is obvious that little money will be passed over his counters by people who have no money to spend.

On the other hand, if there is no idleness among the people, if the factories and mills are running at full capacity and all the families in town are living in comfort, with every prospect of good times in the future, their well-being is reflected in the trade that comes to the merchant's store.

No Lake Villa merchant, however, depends on mere wishing to bring prosperity to his town and to make it grow. He does not doze in his easy chair and dream dreams about outsiders coming in to settle, without helping to create a magnet to attract them. When he argues for better schools and improved streets, it is not in the expectation that his share is to be mere words while other property owners foot the tax bills.

Merchant Backs Town

If that were all there is to it for him, he would not deserve to be a partner in the successful achievements of this community.

Every merchant in this town backs up his confidence in this town, in its prosperity and the prosperity of those in it and in its future as a rising member of this splendid commonwealth, by his hard-earned dollars. Before he can obtain a cent of profit, he must offer a big stock of the goods the public wants, attractively displayed in a conveniently arranged store of adequate size, with all necessary equipment for handling his goods expeditiously, and with well paid, courteous sales people who paramount purpose is to render service to the trade. Not until this investment has been made and this plant is set in all its completeness before the people of the town can he hope to get back even so much as one cent of profit.

It is a big risk to run. If immediate profits were his only object, he never would take this chance. He could invest his money in dozens of other propositions, make more money and make it without waiting so long.

Faith in Town's Future

At the prevailing prices of merchandise in the big city markets, and at the values of property in Lake Villa today, it is easy to calculate the dollars and cents equivalent of the faith which every business man in town has in the future of Lake Villa. If you look closely, you will find that every one goes the limit of his ability in this direction. This holds for the general store, the lumber dealer, the hardware store, the tinsmith, the furniture man, the notions and specialties store, the jeweler, the shoe store, the harness shop, the garage man and all the rest. Their investment is such that there can be no question of days, weeks or months with them, as to when they can quit with a "pile." There is no get-rich-quick scheme. Once they locate, they become fixtures and nothing short of a considerable term of years suffices to win for them even a fair return for their money. To leave before their business, and the business of the town were squarely on their feet, would be poor business policy; to leave after prosperity had come would be folly.

Does not such a citizen deserve your cooperation?

Spells Real Prosperity
If a new factory has in mind locating in Lake Villa but is offered a bonus by a neighboring town, the merchant digs down into his pocket and helps raise a larger bonus, bringing a new industry here. Whatever this means to him, it means more work for the people of Lake Villa. It means more money. It spells prosperity for every family here.

No group of citizens are greater boosters for the schools than the merchants. It means greater opportunities for the generation that comes after them. They reap little direct benefit, and they bear the greatest share of the tax burden, because of the larger valuation of their property. Every family benefits, its boys and girls being helped on the road to better citizenship. In the same way do the business men contribute to libraries, churches and other agencies, as well as take a leading part in patriotic celebrations and community activities, lecture courses, concerts for the public and similar movements.

Place News Items in Box 222

If there is anyone of this township who does not receive the copy of the Lake Villa News, kindly drop your name and address in Box 222 and you will receive a copy of this paper free for the next three months. The businessmen of Lake Villa have made it possible for Lake Villa to have a page paper and it is your paper as much as theirs. Help make it a live publication by contributing news items of interest such as visitors to Lake Villa, parties, meetings and other news. Lake Villa is big enough and live enough to support a paper so everyone get together and let's have these little news items and see that they are deposited in Box 222 Monday mornings in order to insure insertion for that week.
